

JAMES HOUSE QC

Year of call 1995 Silk 2015

James House QC has a national practice prosecuting and defending in high profile, serious criminal cases and is ranked by the Legal 500 and Chambers UK Bar as a leading Silk in crime.

Renowned for his approachable nature and meticulous attention to detail. James is frequently instructed in complex, multi-handed murder cases, manslaughter cases, including legally and factually challenging allegations of gross negligence, as well as high value fraud and drugs importation cases and serious sexual offences, often involving very young or particularly vulnerable witnesses or defendants.

James has specialist knowledge and experience in cases involving death by arson and is particularly in demand in cases involving defendants or witnesses who by reason of age or physical or psychiatric conditions are particularly vulnerable.

James has a successful appellate practice in the Court of Appeal.

LEGAL EXPERTISE

Crime

James is regarded as an exceptional advocate, renowned for his patience and outstanding client and witness handling skills, combined with a compelling manner before a jury.

His practice encompasses all aspects of criminal law, including murder, manslaughter, high value fraud and drugs operations/importations as well as sexual offenses, including rape, child abuse and historic multi-complainant/defendant allegations.

James has extensive experience and expertise in cases involving death by arson as well as undertaking legally and factually complex cases of gross negligence manslaughter involving the medical profession or health and safety violations.

His frequent and repeated instruction in many high-profile cases is testimony to the high regard in which he is held by both prosecution and defence solicitors.
