

MARYAM SYED KC

Year of call 1993 Silk 2024

Maryam Syed is a highly regarded criminal and family practitioner, heavily experienced in dealing with serious complex and high profile cases, with a keen interest in International Human Rights Law.

From defending in the Jill Dando Murder, to prosecuting a RAF Squadron Leader for sexual abuse of boys, to defending a UKIP Councillor in fraud, to Prosecuting a Bishop of a Large Church for Sexual Offences-Maryam has dealt with a wealth of complex serious and notorious cases.

Often instructed prior to charge she advises in highly complicated and distressing matters and is asked to direct the shape of an investigation or defence-and the marshalling of evidence then acting at trial.

She has particular expertise in complex serious sexual abuse cases, rape and historic matters often spanning decades, and in complex multi-defendant serious crime and murder.

Maryam is a Grade 4 Prosecutor and on both the Rape and Serious Crime Panel Lists.

In family she deals with children and allegations of physical and sexual abuse in care proceedings, private law and fact finding.

Maryam has a fearless reputation and is lauded for her ability to talk and persuade her audience whether it's a Judge or jury.

She is often asked to deal with cases of extreme sensitivity and represent those who are vulnerable or have physical or mental health difficulties.

She frequently provides training to police, defence, CPS Lawyers, SOITS, ISVAS, Social Workers and NGOs on vulnerable witnesses and defendants, sexual offences, FGM, Forced Marriage and controlling coercive behaviour and modern slavery.

She regularly commentates both in the written media and on television, and on podcast and seminars.

She often writes and speaks about equality and diversity, inclusivity and social mobility in the legal profession and judiciary.

Maryam is often asked to write in respect of current legal issues. As an example, Maryam was asked to write for the family law journal on the comparative law in respect of controlling and coercive behaviour. See here.

Maryam is fluent in Urdu, Hindi and Punjabi and is often called on to deal with allegations of religious and racially motivated crimes.

Maryam has sat as a Crown Court Judge since 2012 and is authorised as a Judge to try serious sexual offences including rape.

Maryam has recently recorded a video on DNA Principles in Criminal Cases as part of the A-Z Medicolegal Marathon which can be found here.

Maryam was also invited to speak as part of an inclusion networking event hosted by Cake and Counsel, Queen Mary Bar Society and KCLBMS. The video can be seen here.

Maryam spoke on the 14th January 2021 with Amanda Pinto KC and Dr Elaine Storkey on "Lady Justice: has she failed women?" The event can be viewed on YouTube.

On 27 September 2022, Maryam Syed spoke on the panel of: "The criminal justice system what needs to be done?"

Maryam Syed organised and spoke at the seminar: "Coercive control: legal, psychiatric, and human perspectives" on 12 of October 2022 chaired by LJ Thirlwall.

LEGAL EXPERTISE

Crime & Regulatory

She regularly represents and prosecutes those charged with organised crime, homicide, drugs, gang violence, firearms and Operation Trident cases.

Maryam has defended and prosecuted footballers, teachers, soldiers and politicians and others from all walks of life. She has a particular experience in Defending and Prosecuting the young in the Crown court, some as young as 10 years of age.

Noted for her meticulous preparation and robust representation she works tirelessly to ensure all stones are turned and that a client is left feeling fully included and their concerns heard and appropriately dealt with.

She is particularly experienced in presenting and contesting complex expert evidence whether it be forensic, cell site and phone records or audio and visual or financial.

Her other area of specialism is medical evidence both as it pertains to the offence in terms of causation and any defence and psychiatric evidence and disorders both as to witnesses and a defendant.

Her child abuse cases are routinely over decades in multiple locations with others, High Level Sex Offenders acting at trial but also in ancillary matters advising on the propriety of sex offender and restraining orders.

For a number of years Maryam has acted as Specialist Defence Counsel in prosecutions under the Obscene Publications and Video Recordings Acts.

She has extensive experience in Complex/Sensitive Third Party Disclosure and SOCPA agreements [testifying for the prosecution].

Her articles and comments in The Times, Lawyer, Solicitors Journal, Law Society Gazette and Barrister Magazine have dealt with judicial diversity, anonymity in rape trials, Operation Cotton and the effects of the legal aid cuts and high profile sex abuse cases such as Rolf Harris.

Selected Cases

R v Johnson (2022)

Following a four-day trial at the Central Criminal Court, Keelan Johnson was found not guilty by reason of insanity and thus criminally insane, after prosecution and defence doctors agreed that he was severely mentally unwell. On the 11th of November 2022, the defendant was given a hospital order under section 37 of The Mental Health Act 1983, with a section 41 restriction. This indicates he will not be released without the express authority of the Home Office.

Maryam was instructed from the outset and throughout by London CPS.

Maryam Syed prosecutes in taxi driver rape case.

Following an eight day trial at Kingston Crown Court, Amir Maqsood was on 8th November 2022 convicted of oral rape of a female passenger picked up in the early hours of the morning in spring 2019. The trial had been conducted using the section 28 pre-recorded cross examination procedure for vulnerable witnesses. The Defendant was immediately sentenced to a term of 8 years imprisonment and put on the sex offenders register for life.

Maryam was instructed from the outset and throughout by London CPS.
